Hi Becca,
It doesn't sound like we have something already prepared for carcinogen risk levels. I'm going to ask the different regions since I think this is helpful info to have. I'm going to ask for responses by the end of next week and hope to have something compiling the results soon after that.

Thanks,

Hi Becca,
Here is a recent list of FCRs used throughout the nation.
(See attached file: Sept 2012_fish consumption rates_states tribes territories.pdf)

Let me check with HQ to see if they have a list for risk levels. I'm hopeful they have something, I can't imagine this question hasn't been asked before. If we do, it wouldn't be on our public website. I'll let you know what I find out.

Thanks,

Hey Matt,

I'm working to pull together a comprehensive list of existing risk levels and FCR rates used in the different states. Short of trolling each state's WQ web page, do you know if there is a comprehensive list of this information? I searched the main EPA site and didn't see anything, but I may not have looked in the right places.

Thanks,

Becca
